WANTS HER MULE AND CART.

Patience Harris' Experience With a Perfidious Man Named John.

Patience Harris, a stout little negro living in a little shanty on the dump at the foot of Dock street, called at the Fifth District Station Thursday morning and called the police to help recover her mule and cart.

She said she loaned them to a negro for a few minutes Wednesday and he failed to return them. She knew his name was John, but didn't know his first name. She said she would go with the woman in to tell John and make him return the borrowed property.

SHERMAN WAS BUKKOED.

HANNA WORKED A SMART GAME ON THE OLD MAN.

STOCKED THE COUNTRY CARDS.

Discouraging Letters Sent to the Senator's Agent Which Shunted Him Into the Cabinet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 21.—Since the authoritative announcement was made that Senator John Sherman had accepted the portfolio of State in President McKinley's Cabinet, there has been much wonderment how it all came about in view of the recent declaration made by the Senator that he would stand as a candidate for re-election to his present position. A politician, known the country over, not unfriendly to Senator Sherman, and who had much to do with securing the victory in this State for McKinley, is authority for the following story, which is made interesting at this time, because it betrays Mark Hanna's methods in getting into the United States Senate, if, in fact, it does not disclose that Sherman has been made the victim of friends, or at least persons professing friendship.

The portfolio of State was offered Sherman by President McKinley in compliance with Hanna's wishes, but the result was a disappointment. Sherman, however, was not to be discouraged. He had been told by Hanna, in the confidence of a friend, that he would be made the victim of friends, or at least persons professing friendship.

The result of the canvass was not encouraging. Hanna had the boys fixed. There were not a few who took the view that Senator Sherman should be satisfied to retire and give some younger man a chance. Mr. Donaldson, of course, could not call upon all parties in person with whom he desired to consult, and letters were sent to many of them asking their views on the situation.

The Post-Dispatch's informant says that he saw several of these letters, one of which bore date of Jan. 10. The responses to many of these letters were of the same discouraging character that Mr. Donaldson had received in his personal interviews with different parties, whose influence and support was very much desired. The letter was reported to Sherman, and Hanna was also made cognizant of the state of feeling which existed. This was the opportunity which Hanna was waiting for. He had been told by Hanna, in the confidence of a friend, that he would be made the victim of friends, or at least persons professing friendship.

The latest Cabinet news and gossip sums up this way:

Hanna has assured McKinley that he has the Ohio Legislature fixed. To keep the boys fixed he will spend money lavishly at the social session banquet at Columbus Friday night.

Republicans of the Missouri Legislature in caucus endorsed John Sherman, but failed to recommend Gen. Warner for the Cabinet.

McKinley is said to be favorably impressed with Charles Parsons, but opposed to giving a Cabinet place to a man who has been so seriously considered for a Cabinet position.

New York Union League Club has sent a representative to Columbus to urge the selection of John Sherman for Secretary of State.

Judge Joseph McKenna has returned to his home in San Francisco from his visit to McKinley. This was his last day in the city with the President-elect before the Cabinet, but says there are "difficulties" in the way.

NEW TRIAL DENIED.

Motion of the Western Travelers' Association Overruled.

In the United States Circuit Court on Thursday, Judge Adams heard in chambers the motion for a new trial in the suit of Sarah A. Smith vs. the Western Commercial Travelers' Association and overruled the application.

In December, Mrs. Smith recovered a judgment against the Association for $145 on a certificate issued to her husband, Freeman O. Smith, Smith died of blood-poisoning resulting from a sore on his nose. The sore was caused by his wearing a suit of such circumference as to chafe the nose so as to entitle the beneficiary to the amount stipulated. Judge Adams found for the widow and was contrary days in which to prepare a bill of exceptions.

MISSING FAMILY LOCATED.

George Vanderlinde and Children Are in Ogles County, Illinois.

C. Eyster, a merchant at Holcomb, Ill., has written to the police that George Vanderlinde, who abandoned his wife in a shanty near Forsythe Junction seven months ago, was seen in Holcomb last summer. The three children, whose loss caused the abandoned wife, were with him. They traveled in a wagon and camped for a month at Holcomb.

The children were in rags, and the man unable to support himself. Citizens of the place made a purse for them. After a month he went with his children to Ogles Co., Ill.

Mr. Eyster writes that he read of Mrs. Vanderlinde's pitiable plight in the Post-Dispatch, and that his motive in writing was actuated by the desire to help the poor mother's distress. Vanderlinde resided in Holcomb ten years ago.

BLACK-HEARTED INGRATE.

Barkeeper Stahler Assaulted by a Man Whom He Had Befriended.

A warrant was issued against Joseph Rado, a race horse man, Thursday for assaulting John Stahler, a saloon-keeper at Thirtieth and Olive streets, early Thursday morning. Stahler claims that he had trouble with Rado in the saloon last night. He entered the place again this morning with a friend and called for a drink. When Stahler stopped down for the bottle, he claimed that Rado reached for his gun and hit him on the head with a pair of brass knuckles.

The trouble in Stahler's saloon Wednesday night was caused by Rado, who rushed in with a woman with him. Shortly after a woman with him, he was seen entering the saloon and searched about until he found Rado. Peace was finally patched up with the good services of the saloon-keeper. The man with the brass knuckles Mr. Stahler takes as his reward for his kindly interference.

THE ROW BEGAN OVER POLITICS.

GOLD AND SILVER BUGS IN THE UNIVERSALIST MISSION.

REV. DR. BARTLETT'S STORY.

She Denies That She Was Ever Asked to Resign, but Admits the Goldbugs Are Fighting Her.

Rev. Dr. Ella M. Bartlett, pastor of the Universalist Mission, at 312 Easton avenue, presents the imputation that the row in her church is over the fact that she is a woman. She declares that politics is at the bottom of it all.

During the campaign there arose warm feeling between the goldbugs and the silverbugs. Now she finds all the gold bugs against her, and all the silver for her. Hence her conclusions.

Then Miss Bartlett also has this to say: She has never been asked to resign, either by any individual or any set of individuals, and hence she has never refused to resign. She knows very well what Mrs. H. B. White, the leader of the opposition, said, and she is far from desiring to call Mrs. White names. That would be both unchristian and unladylike, to say nothing of its being unministerial. Mrs. White simply was mistaken.

A full account of Miss Bartlett's troubles, as they appear to the opposition, was printed in Monday's Post-Dispatch. The woman pastor upon being asked for her side of the case, declined to talk. After her flock saw what Mrs. White had said, however, they told her she must make a statement, and she accordingly appeared in the Post-Dispatch office Thursday morning.

"I don't want to say anything," she began, "but I will make it appear that Mrs. White has not been telling the truth. She has simply misconstrued the action taken at a certain meeting. Now, I'll tell you how it all happened.

"During the campaign the parish divided on politics. I took the silver side, and a good deal of animosity was engendered. I found difficulty in raising any money. They owed me several months' salary, and in order to help them out I went before a regular meeting of the members and offered to give up my salary and continue preaching until other arrangements could be made.

"This offer was accepted. It seems, however, that prior to this meeting a secret caucus had been held by the opposition, at which they had determined to ask me to resign. They never presented the desire of theirs at the regular meeting, nor did they ever ask me to resign.

"I would willingly resign did I think it best for the parish, but they can get no one to take my place for what they are paying or rather were paying me. I am in correspondence with the general officers of the Universalist Church, and will take their advice in the matter. Until I hear from them, I shall continue preaching at the mission.

Now as to the objection to me because I am a woman. There is nothing in that and it does all womankind an injury now that the sex is striving to reach out to broader fields. When I took charge of the parish it was with the understanding that I was to do no pastoral work for $5 a week. I had to earn enough to live on during the week days."

Another objection Miss Bartlett wanted to Physician and Patient Alike.

Dr. Redmond, a specialist in the study and treatment of Piles and rectal diseases, recently stated that the Pyramid Pile Cure, a new discovery, was the cure of piles, was the most remarkable remedy he had ever seen or tried in one respect; and that was, the instant relief experienced in all cases, no matter how severe from the moment the remedy was applied; this was the more surprising to him, because he had carefully analyzed the preparation and had found no trace of opium, cocaine or similar poison could be detected.

Physicians look with great favor upon the Pyramid Pile Cure, because it is rapidly taking the place of surgical operations and because it is so simple, so easily applied and contains no mineral or other poisons so commonly used in pile cures.

Dr. Esterbrook reports that the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures the various forms of piles, but never fails to give immediate relief on the first application, no matter how severe the pain or discomfort may be.

People who have suffered from piles for years are often astonished at the instant relief experienced from the first application. Another important advantage is the fact that any one can use the remedy without detention from business or interference with daily occupation.

Mr. J. W. Rollins of Sweet Springs, Mo., writes: "I consider the Pyramid Pile Cure without an equal; it cured me in less than 30 days. I waited 15 days or more to be sure I was fully cured before writing you. I am cured and I shall recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure to every possible opportunity, because it deserves it."

Although a comparatively new remedy, its popularity is such, that all druggists now sell it; if your druggist hasn't it in stock, he will get it for you if you ask him, as all wholesale druggists have it on sale.

A pamphlet describing the cause and cure of piles sent free by addressing the Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich.

to file in reference to the picture of her published with the story in Monday's paper. While she admitted that it looked like the photograph from which it was taken, she declared that it didn't look like her. To be sure that a correct likeness of her might be obtained, a Post-Dispatch artist was sent for and while the preacher talked with a reporter, a perfect sketch was secured. It looks just like her.

HE QUIT SMOKING.

Resultant Nervousness Caused a False
Rumor About Organist Dunster.

The publication in a morning paper that Charles Dunster, organist at St. Peter's R. Church, was stricken at the close of the Sunday morning service with nervous prostration and had to be assisted from his organ by the rector, Dr. William Short, has caused much indignation among Mr. Dunster's friends. They say it is untrue. "Nothing of the kind occurred," said Dr. Short. "Mr. Dunster is a man of very nervous temperament and has not been well for some time. His condition may have been worse than usual Sunday morning, but it was not noticed and he left the organ unassisted at the close of the recessional. Neither his physician nor a carriage was summoned that I know of."

Dr. William G. Moore, the physician mentioned, said the organist had been under his care some time for nervous troubles brought about by a too close application to his studies, and was suffering from neurasthenia or nervous exhaustion. Until recently he was addicted to the tobacco habit, but this was discontinued upon the physician's advice, and the sudden relinquishing of his cigar, upon the contemplation of the Sunday evening Mr. Dunster went to Dr. Moore's office for a consultation about his condition. The result was that he went to the Protestant Hospital, 101 North Eighteenth street, more for a rest from his work

PAT CARMODY NOW SEES A LIGHT.

THE FAIR ASSOCIATION A "COM-MON GAMSTER."

A SIN TO PAY IT MONEY.

The "Privilege" Man at the Race Track
Pleads Gambling as a Bar to Settlement.

According to Pat Carmody the Fair Association have been running a "common gambling house" at the Fair Grounds.

He says so in a paper filed in Judge Spencer's division of the Circuit Court. When the racing season was looming up last spring, Carmody bought the right to sell refreshments to the assembled crowds.

He agreed to pay $15,000 and give bond with Dave and Jane Nicholson and John H. Tracey as sureties that he would do so.

When the season ended he owed the association $14,400 and he brought suit against him and his bond.

Carmody's answer was filed Thursday. He objects to paying another $15,000 and his reasons are in short that it would be contributing to an immoral and unlawful enterprise. He alleges that a contract was based on an illegal consideration, the Fair Association is maintaining, operating and conducting a race track. The grand stand, from which he is to dispense beverages, is a part of the race track and its refreshments to be furnished under the contract were furnished because of the presence of those who assembled to gamble.

The answer also alleges that all necessary appliances, apparatus, records and paraphernalia for gambling and betting were provided by the plaintiff, and upon its race track, and that the grand stand and its refreshments constituted a common gambling house.

The method of betting is described in detail.

Carmody concludes that his contract for privileges was executed with reference to and by reason of unlawful transactions, and is, therefore, void.

To this answer a motion has been made to strike out the allegations concerning gambling and betting, and the reason for doing so is because they are immaterial, irrelevant, scandalous, defamatory and frivolous, and are in no wise responsive to the plaintiff's petition.

Boyle, Priest & Lehman represent the Fair Association. Chester H. Krum represents Carmody and his sureties.

THEY GOT TOO MERRY.

Chestnut Street Women Arrested During a Free Fight.

The inmates of Aggie Woods' resort on Chestnut street had no merry a time Wednesday night that the police interfered. The place was raided and Belle Douglas, Ada Monahan, Madge Ray and Dot Pullman, alias Madge Lev, were arrested.

When the police entered the house a free-for-all fight was in progress. Some one had struck the Monahan and she was fighting with a vase, cutting an ugly gash. The women will all go to the Police Court for disturbing the peace.

There is an unsatisfied judgment of $50 standing against Madge Lev. She was arrested, fined $50 and given 10 days in jail a year ago for doing the midway dance in abbreviated costume in a Chestnut street resort.

HE KNOWS BETTER NOW.

Peter Rody Interfered With a Family Quarrel.

Peter Rody was on his way home Thursday morning at 1 o'clock. He saw a man and woman quarrelling at 8th and Gratiot streets.

The couple appeared very much in earnest and a fight seemed inevitable. Rody was called in and he tried to separate them. The woman resented what she considered an intrusion.

"This man is my husband," she said. "He is strictly a family affair and I want no interference. If he wants to whip me, he can do so. I am his wife and whenever he gets ready. Now we will excuse you. Move on."

Rody did not move on and the woman picked up a stone and let drive. The missile struck him on the side of the head and knocked him down. The man and woman ran away. Rody does not know them. His wound was dressed at the Dispensary and he was sent to his home, at 80 South Sixth street.

SHE WANTED TO DIE.

Mrs. Mary Kaiser Took Morphine to End Her Grieving.

In a fit of despondency, Mrs. Mary Kaiser, housekeeper for James Lang of 1023 Collins street, attempted to end her existence by morphine Wednesday night. She purchased a large quantity of the drug, and swallowed what would have been a fatal dose had she not been discovered. She was pumped out at the Dispensary and sent to the City Hospital.

Mrs. Kaiser says that she was worth $24,000 when she came to this country a few years ago, but that her husband had lost it all in a speculative venture. She is now insane and secured possession of the property. Mourning her loss, she was driven to the conclusion that life was not worth the living.

WAIVES FORMALITIES.

John L. Young Will Return to Pittsburg Without Requisition Papers.

John L. Young has concluded to return to Pittsburgh, Pa., without requisition papers and answer the charge of forgery and embezzlement.

Young was arrested Tuesday evening while leaving a theater. He was a clerk for Herman Baer, a Pittsburgh commission merchant, and his shortage is said to be about $300. Detective Phil Demmel of Pittsburgh reached St. Louis Thursday and will leave Thursday night with his prisoner.

Prof. H. S. Pritchett of Washington University will give an illustrated lecture on "The Sun and Sun Spots" at Memorial Hall, Nineteenth and Locust streets, Thursday evening. The lecture will be illustrated by photographs of sun spots, including views showing the rapid changes the recent large sun spot underwent.

Lindell M. E. Church Organ Recital.

There will be an organ recital at Lindell Avenue M. E. Church on the evening of Jan. 22. Mr. A. W. Field of Cincinnati will preside at the organ, which will be fitted for the first time in this city with an acolian attachment.

SWINDLED LOCAL MERCHANTS.

Postal Inspectors Run In Seven Alleged Texas Merchants.

Seven men were placed in jail at Paris, Tex., Wednesday night under numerous charges of swindling. It is said that seven of the St. Louis houses were among their victims.

According to the story given out by Post Office Inspector Dick of the New Orleans division, the headquarters of the gang was in Dolby Springs, Tex. The ringleader is said to be Tom Woodson, one of the men under arrest. His confederates are named J. W. Whitcomb, J. D. Woodson, J. F. Jennings, T. H. George, J. W. Smith and J. W. Shaw. Their method of operating, it is said, was to write business like letters to wholesale firms throughout the country ordering large bills of goods to be shipped to Dolby Springs. The firm would not fill the order on account of the protests of the credit man, the schemers were only out the cost of stationery and postage. If the order was filled, the goods were sold, and the firm got nothing, according to the charges made by the Post Office inspectors.

The St. Louis firms stated to have been swindled were the John B. and Book Co., Meyer Bros. Drug Co. and Simmons Hardware Co. Members of the lock firm say that they ever had any dealings with Woodson or his associates. Wm. Graham, the credit man of Meyer Bros. Drug Co., stated that Woodson had ordered a large bill of goods from that house over a year ago, but the order was never filled, the people not being known. The correspondence between the firm and Woodson was turned over to the postal authorities at their request.

The Simmons Hardware Co. admits that the house was "swindled" by Woodson. It claims the amount was insignificant. No one would tell what the amount was, but it was admitted that the touch was made in 1895. "We don't care to advertise the fact that we were humbugged," said Woodson. F. N. Johnson, and he refused to discuss the case.

E. H. SOTHERN
IS AN ATHLETE.

HE BELIEVES IN CONSTANT PHYSICAL TRAINING.

DEVOTED TO THE BICYCLE.

He Discusses the Risk of Accepting a New Play and the Expense of Mounting It.

E. H. Sothern, "matinee girl's favorite," romantic actor, husband of one of the handsomest women on the stage and prince of good fellows, has earned another title—athlete.

Those who have seen Mr. Sothern in "An Enemy to the King" wonder if there is any padding in those well-fitting tights that are worn by the hero of many realistic stage battles.

A Post-Dispatch reporter watched Mr.
Sothern "make up" Wednesday afternoon.

The smooth face of the talented young actor went through many changes before the bearded visage of de Lannoy appeared, but the figure of Sothern and that of the man with the red beard were the same.

For years Mr. Sothern has been a great believer in physical exercise, and his daily efforts in that direction have brought him into perfect condition.

Mr. Sothern is an expert boxer as well as a splendid swordsman. He could hold his own in a "scrap," as well as on the stage.

He is also an enthusiastic wheelman, and this hobby accounts for the snug manner in which his tights fit.

"After a man gets into good shape,"
said Mr. Sothern,
"that way is not hard to stay that way."

In the case of an actor it is different.
Up late every night and always moving around gives a chap little or no time to look after himself.

"Everything I exercise with a pair of dumb-bells. I had one of those elastic exercisers, but the hook would be coming ally pulling out of the wall and hitting one in the back of the neck, so that has been dropped."

There is a great deal of physical exertion in the sword duel with Montaigne that is not realized by the average person. There is no "one, two, three, lunge" business in it, but, instead, it is all hard work.

In order to be perfect in that scene and in the duel in "The Prisoner of Zenda," I took fencing lessons from a man and built up his muscles.

"Everything I have ever had an accident in any of these stage encounters, although the slightest misstep would probably result in a serious wound."

A short time ago Mr. Elyane, who plays Gillaume Montaigne, was playing himself in a scene from a broken finger and his hand slipped.

"The point of my long sword went into my open mouth. He jerked it back again so quick that I was uninjured. Had my mouth been closed I would have lost several teeth."

"No one dreams of the expense in putting on a play like this. The daggers, swords, draperies, costumes and all the 'props' are exact reproductions of the things used in France during the sixteenth century."

Myself during a trip to France after I had thoroughly saturated myself with the play.
But he greatly criticized this season for selecting "An Enemy to the King," coming as it does from the pen of an unknown man, R. N. Stephens. It was risky, no doubt, but I believe it has gone through all right things."

This is Mr. Stephens' first attempt at a play of high order. He has written several plays, "The White Bird" for instance, merely because some one paid him to do it.

"Since Mr. Stephens' success with my play the people who criticized me for trying it now come forward and say the play, or many of the characters, were stolen from old English books. The author assured me that his work was entirely original, and he is not the kind of chap that would lie about it."

"What about next season? Well, I shall stick to the romantic dramas, several of which I am reading now. Stephens is at work on a Cuban war play that will, no doubt, be very effective."
